

In London for Frieze Week? Don't Miss These 15 Must-See Gallery Shows During the Fair

Dealers are pulling out all the stops for Frieze.

Naomi Rea & Javier Pes, September 30, 2019

James Rosenquist at Thaddaeus Ropac September 11 – November 22

James Rosenquist, installation view of "Visualising the Sixties,"
Galerie Thaddaeus Ropac, Photo: Ben Westoby.

This exhibition may revise your ideas about Pop art and James Rosenquist's role in its irresistible rise. Highlights include experimental early works, several featuring light bulbs and Plexiglass, and Yellow Applause (1966), a motorized painting in which two hands on separate canvases clap. The show also features preparatory studies for Rosenquist's signature works, including Marylin (1962), which is at the MoMA in New York. Museum loans and works from the artist's estate make this a must-see exhibition.

Galerie Thaddaeus Ropac, Ely House, 37 Dover St, Mayfair,
London W1S 4NJ